The Corwin Sails for the Arctic.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The revenue cutter Corwin Capt Healy in command sailed for the Arctic ocean yesterday. The Corwin was under weigh with an four hours afterwards we received to start for the Arctic. When the news of the disasters to the Rogers was first received the government intended to send the Corwin to the rescue of the shipwrecked men and orders were given to have that vessel made ready as soon as possible. It was found, however that it would take too long to get the Iroquois ready and the Corwin was ordered to go in her place. The Corwin has been thoroughly overhauled since her return from the Behring Sea and was fitted out for a six months stay in the north, and all she had to do to be ready for sea was to take in water and coal. Captain Healey is an experienced navigator and as he has a very fine vessel and is used to work in a frozen ocean, the Corwin may be expected to accomplish what he is sent to do speedily. The officers and crew left on the steamer by the ladies Nellie and Annie, and on parting the customary salutes were exchanged, the Annie sending a salute of 21 guns

Fires at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—West Oakland was visited last night by a destructive fire. The flames were discovered in the Pacific planing mill, which spreading destroyed seven buildings and most of their contents. Total damage $35,000. The loss is partially covered by insurance. Another fire yesterday in Oakland occasioned about $3000 damage.

THE GREAT TRIPLE REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION.

Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the only remedies in the world that will cure Consumption. Each of the three is indispensable to the success of the others. The Pulmonic Syrup is a powerful expectorant, and is the only medicine that will cause the patient to throw off the tubercles which are the cause of the disease. The Sea Weed Tonic is a peculiar preparation from the Sea Weed, and is the only medicine that will prevent the food from fermenting in the stomach. The Mandrake Pills are a gentle cathartic, and are necessary to carry off the bile and liver secretions. Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic are entirely vegetable, and contain no mercury or other mineral. Dr. Schenck's Mandrake Pills contain a small portion of mercury, but not enough to salivate. Explicit directions accompany each medicine. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, Philadelphia, every Saturday. Consultation free, but for a thorough examination with the Lungs the Respirometer must be used, for which the charge is $5. Pamphlet containing a full history of the Triple Remedy, with certificates of cures, sent free. Sold by all druggists.

EDUCATIONAL MEASURES.

The census bureau has just furnished a striking argument in favor of the Logan bill or some other of the measures which propose to cope with the problem of illiteracy. Out of a total voting population of nearly 11,000,000 nearly 1,400,000 can neither read nor write. If it be true as set forth in the republican creed, that "the intelligence of the nation is but the aggregate of the intelligence in the several states, and the destiny of the nation must be guided, not by the genius of any one state, but by the average genius of them all," what destiny awaits that nation which numbers illiterate voters enough to turn its presidential elections? It places the government within the easy grasp of demagogues who appeal to the ignorant, the depraved and the vicious.

The census shows 6,239,958 persons over ten years of age who cannot read and write. Of these illiterates, more than three-fourths are in the southern states—the great majority, of course, being colored. The bureau of education furnishes some interesting data on this subject. A comparison of what is being done in the way of education in some of the less wealthy of the northern states with what is being accomplished in the same line in two of the richest states in the south, affords food for reflection. Maine shows an average expenditure per capita of school population of $4 71; Illinois, $5 45; Indiana, $5 75, and Iowa, $8 74. Alabama shows an expenditure of but $1, and Virginia of $1 06. The effects are plainly marked in the percentages of illiteracy. In Maine there are 3.42 per cent. of illiterates; Illinois, 4.7; Indiana, 5.6, and Iowa, 2.87, while in Alabama the percentage is 34.33 and in Virginia 28.45. Money tells in education as in other matters, and until the people of the south make greater sacrifices in that direction they will not reach the standard desired. There is a wide difference between $1 per capita and $8—a difference not wholly to be accounted for by the relative ability to pay.

The dense ignorance indicated by the statistics is a national danger that cannot be viewed with indifference. The assaults made upon our laws and institutions come chiefly from the falsely educated, but these would be almost powerless for evil were it not that the material is at hand to recruit their ranks. The propositions now before congress intended to remove this danger and the interest which they have excited throughout the country are favorable signs. Logan's bill, which has been most generally discussed, might be amended in some particulars with advantage. It contemplates a division of $50,000,000 annually, or the whole tax from distilled spirits, among the several states, pro rata according to the statistics of illiteracy. This sum would not fall much short of the entire amount spent annually in all the states for common school purposes and is regarded by many as too extravagant. Senator Blair's proposition is to aid the public school system in the states, by appropriating, for a period of ten years, certain given amounts—$15,000,000 for the first year, $14,000,000 for the second, and so on, reducing the amounts $1,000,000 each year until the tenth and last, which would be only $6,000,000—these several sums to be distributed on the basis of illiteracy. This measure meets with much favor among educators and has been indorsed by the executive officers of the National Teachers' Association. Still another proposition is that made by the representatives of the Peabody fund and various educational organizations in the south, who have already spent $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions in the aid of the elevation of the freedmen and poor whites. They ask an appropriation of $18,000,000 annually for an indefinite period, or about $3 for each illiterate. That would give some of the southern states five, some four and some three times as much as they now raise by local taxation for school purposes. These states ought to do more for themselves than they now do, but if they will not the law of self-preservation will demand that the work be done by the general government.

The great danger in popular education is in overdoing it. The effort of our public schools is toward results which are not desirable or practicable in more than ten instances out of a hundred. Boys are taught a course which, no matter how different in purpose, makes them all want to be lawyers and doctors and gives them a distaste for the trades and classes of business which need them and in which their welfare lies. To put $50,000,000 annually—the sum provided by the Logan bill—into the hands of professional educators to be spent in wholesale education would be wasteful and unwise. The professor views education from one standpoint, the statesman from another. The educator sees in a crowd of little fellows gathered from the by-ways the same possibilities as in a college class, and with generous enthusiasm would develop them to the highest extreme. The statesman considers that just to the extent that education will benefit the state by giving it good citizens, should the state pay for it.

FREE TRADE TALK.

A public meeting of the New York free trade club was held at Chickering hall last week to give expression to the belief that a "judicious but thorough reform of the tariff in the direction of commercial liberty cannot be delayed without disastrous effects to the prosperity of the country." The addresses of the evening were delivered by Prof. William G. Sumner, of Yale college, the well known free trade writer, and Senator Vance, of North Carolina, who, it will be remembered, was the author of a proposed amendment to the tariff commission bill providing that the manufacturing and agricultural interests of the country should be represented on the commission in proportion to the amount of capital invested and the number of laborers employed by each, which, in Senator Vance's opinion, would give the farmers about seven members to the manufacturers' one. No public meeting of this character has been held in New York city for several years, and the names attached to the call, among which were those of Abram S. Hewitt, William Wood, Mayor Grace, Horace White, Townsend Cox, David M. Stone, Robert B. Minturn, Anson Phelps Stokes, LeGrand Lockwood, Carl Schurz, E. S. Jaffray, David A. Wells and Theodore A. Havemeyer, give sufficient evidence of the existence among men of prominence in public and private life of a belief in the necessity of a full discussion of tariff issues at the present time, when the somewhat uncertain temper of congress gives the country little assurance that the reform is being taken hold of with a sincere purpose to make it effective.

In reply to criticisms on his part in the death of Jesse James, Gov. Crittenden says: "If you want to know the value of the deed ask the managers of banks; ask the owners of land in that part of the state; ask the managers of the many railroads constructed in this state; ask the ticket agents at St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Chicago; ask the hotel-keepers at St. Louis and Kansas City; ask the property-holders and real estate agents at Kansas City and in Jackson county; ask those who own land in Clay and Platte; hear all their responses, and then say it was not a good deed in behalf of law, order and general prosperity."

It would be unjust to say that the masses of the democratic party of this state hold the robber administration of Grover and Chadwick in higher estimation than the honest administration of Gov. Thayer, but the bosses of the party manifestly do, and hence they refused to allow a resolution in commendation of the Thayer administration to go into the platform which was constructed by their late convention.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

To correct a general misunderstanding in regard to the action of the national republican committee on the call for the next national convention, Marshall Jewell, chairman of the committee, has made a public statement. He says that at a meeting of the committee in June, 1880, a resolution was unanimously adopted directing the committee to prescribe, within the next twelve months from that time, a method or methods for the election of delegates to the national convention to be held in 1884, to announce the same to the country, and to issue a call in conformity therewith, providing that such methods or rules shall include and secure to the several congressional districts the right to elect their own delegates to the national convention. At a meeting of the committee the 1st of July, 1880, a request was publicly made for transmission to the committee of plans and suggestions on this subject from any period prior to February 1, 1881. A full meeting of the national committee was held in Washington in March, 1881, to consider this subject. At that meeting a committee, consisting of William E. Chandler, George C. Gorham and Edward McPherson, made a report on the question. The majority report represented the views of Chandler and McPherson; the minority views were held by Gorham. Both plans were fully discussed at that meeting, the discussion chiefly turning upon the question of district representation, and next of the representation based upon the republican vote. The issue of this debate was the unanimous adoption by the committee of the following resolution:

Resolved, That in accordance with the order of the republican convention of 1880, the call for the convention of 1884 shall provide for securing to the several congressional districts the right to elect their own delegates to such national convention; that the details, methods or rules to be included in such call shall be determined at a future meeting of the committee, to be held within one year from this date; and that the whole subject be now referred to a committee of five, who shall make a report at such meeting.

William E. Chandler, Thomas C. Platt, John M. Forbes, John A. Martin and Chauncey I. Filley were appointed a committee under this resolution to consider and report upon the subject of representation of the territories and District of Columbia in the national convention and on the national committee. This sub-committee has already unanimously agreed that its call shall provide for securing to the several congressional districts the right to elect their own delegation, and only the methods or rules for carrying out this purpose remain to be determined.

Wm. Hoyle of England has compiled from the British excise returns some interesting figures, showing the expenditure of the nation last year for drink. Of the beer consumed we find the quantity 970,788,564 gallons, the value of which was £72,809,142 ($364,000,000), against £67,881,673 in the previous year. Of British wines and spirits the consumption was 28,730,719 gallons, which amounts to £28,730,719, against £28,457,486 for 1880. In foreign spirits the figures are 8,295,265 gallons, amounting to £9,954,318, against £10,173,014 in 1880. For wine the figures are 15,644,757 gallons, amounting to £14,080,281, against £14,267,102 in 1880; while the consumption of British wines is estimated at 15,000,000 gallons, amounting to £1,500,000, the same as in 1880. The total for 1881 is £127,074,460 ($635,000,000), against £122,279,275, showing an increase of £4,795,185. The consumption of beer shows an increase of 7.3 per cent., and that of British spirits one of 0.96 per cent., while foreign spirits show a decrease of 2.2 per cent., and wine one of 1.3 per cent. Taking the percentage of the total it gives an aggregate increase of 3.9 per cent. Great Britain is the most drunken country in the world, notwithstanding her two hierarchical and infallible churches and "holier-than thou" pretensions.

England may claim a decided novelty in the way of a prize fight. A number of sporting men having projected a fight between two bruisers named Goodson, alias "Sugar," and Hicks, and finding it difficult to hit upon a locality where the police would not interfere with them, hired a "church" for the ostensible purpose of giving an "assault at arms," and admitted the public at so much a head. The exercises began with a boxing-match, and then the fight followed in good earnest. The Standard says: "A ring had been formed at the chancel end of the building, the altar rails and ropes being used in its construction, while the communion table itself was selected as a vantage ground for the referee. The combatants were attended by their seconds, who had come provided with ice, pails of water, sponges, brandy bottles and all the usual adjuncts of the 'ring,' thus conclusively proving the nature of the contest that was expected. The police, who had wind of the affair, broke into the church before the fight was over and arrested the principals and most of the leaders, and they were severely punished for their part in the Marquis of Queensbury's favorite amusement as well as for their desecration of the chapel."

The postal department has approached nearer to a self-supporting condition than ever before, in part as the result of the abolition of the franking privilege several years ago. It has become possible to propose the reduction of letter postage to two cents without provoking much opposition, and the belief is general that the postal department might soon be made self-supporting, notwithstanding such a reduction. But if the franking privilege is restored, it is certain that the reports of the department will become more unfavorable year after year. That privilege opens the door to so many abuses that, having once escaped from the burden, the nation will be stupid to permit its weight to rest upon its back again. The senate has voted to restore the franking privilege, but the house hesitates.

The question of Jewish persecution in Russia will be brought before congress in some shape during this session. A resolution of sympathy is pending, and correspondence has been called for and is being printed. The only way it can be reached by this country is by the action of the Russian government in prohibiting Jews who are American citizens from entering the country. This government, through diplomatic channels recently remonstrated against such prohibitions, and the Russian minister of state reiterated that the United States government proposed to do the same thing with regard to the Chinese, and that their policy was not without a precedent set by ourselves.

By late improvements in the telephone, conversation has been easily carried on between Boston and New York—a distance of 240 miles. Ordinary tones of voice were heard distinctly, and with the application of what is called a handphone, a whisper could be distinctly heard. The secret of this success is mainly the use of a stronger electric current, and it is confidently predicted that soon the improvements will enable conversation to be carried on successfully between New York and San Francisco.

Sales of Longfellow's works from 1839 to 1857 amounted to 325,550 volumes. From 1857 to 1881 there were sold 194,000 copies of his collected works in four different editions. In 1881 more than 45,000 copies of his works were sold, and in the same year 15,000 copies of the Birthday Book, edited by Miss Bates. It is estimated that in Great Britain and Ireland not less than 30,000 copies of his books are sold annually, this being far more than of any other poet; while in Canada his books find a greater sale than any four living poets combined.

The republican papers of Boston differ as to the expediency of Massachusetts senators opposing the confirmation of Worthington the extreme stalwart who has just been appointed collector of the port. The Journal believes that their opposition would be unwise because it would be useless, while the Transcript thinks that they should voice the civil service reform sentiment of the state.

The New York legislature is having a dictionary fight. A bill is up providing for the purchase of a Webster unabridged dictionary for each of the 11,000 school districts of the state, at low rates, the districts to have the book from the educational department at cost. The Webster agent has been quietly "fixing" things for several weeks, and sample copies have been as free as patent office reports. But in the eleventh hour a Worcester man came into the field with the determination to rule or ruin, and now there is chaos wild in the lobbies where Webster was once supreme.

Thirteen students of Trinity college in Hartford, Conn., members of the Senior class, have been suspended indefinitely by the faculty as a penalty for hazing. The victims of the brutal practice were three sophomores who edit a college sheet, and who will themselves be put on trial for writing articles reflecting on the faculty.

The testimony of Blaine and Hurlbut before the investigation committee effectually dispose of Shipherd. Blaine produced letters from Senators Boutwell, Blair and several prominent officials, denying the statements of Shipherd and showing up that delectable person as an arrant-knave of the first magnitude.

Illinois appears to be having a fit of transitory sanity, says the Chicago Tribune; he says that Saxville is a nuisance.

MARRIED.

April 22, at the residence of C. P. Pearson, Esq., by Rev. J. A. Gray, Louis Anderson, of this city, and Josephine Anderson, of San Francisco.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.
THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes, and in spite of all the surgical aid I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse, until at length I became hopelessly blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was in the treatment of the oculists of considerable repute. One was a professor of diseases of the eye, and I remained under his care one month, but continuing to get worse, I changed to another specialist, only to find I was only jumping out of the frying-pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, 624 Clay street, San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first, and I continued to improve day by day, until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild, different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. Insert this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee and without his knowledge to let any similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyes cured. I have been through the mill and speak from a sad experience. m3d&w HENRY HARRISON.

The property belonged to the Davenport heirs.

ANOTHER CHANGE OF PRECINCT.—In addition to the changes made in the precincts of this city Monday, the 17th inst, the county court yesterday added the block bounded by the Willamette river and Second, Columbia and Market streets to the South Portland precinct. No other changes were made.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.—Work on the three tunnels of the Oregon Pacific railroad will commence to-day under contract. The terms require them to be done by August 1. The company have advertised for telegraph poles and will soon commence a line to run through from Corvallis to Newport.

ANOTHER WALLA WALLA DAILY.—Mr M G Harris, founder of the Walla Walla Daily Journal, arrived last night en route to San Francisco for the purpose of buying a newspaper plant. He will begin the publication of a daily evening journal at Walla Walla about May 15.

EN ROUTE TO STEILACOOM.—John Smalick, an insane man, was lodged in the city jail last night en route to Steilacoom. He is from Walla Walla and is in charge of Deputy Sheriff George Smalls, who will continue on his journey with his charge this morning.

PARTIALLY RECOVERED.—Mr J L Smith who fell from a ladder some time since, receiving serious injury to the spine, was upon the streets yesterday. He says he still suffers considerably and will be unable to again attend his work for quite a while.

DECISION FOR PLAINTIFF.—The suit of E J Haight against Wm Harrington was decided in the county court yesterday, allowing the plaintiff $300. It was a case of an agent selling property and the owner refusing to transfer the same.

LIGHT SALMON CATCH.—Reports to THE OREGONIAN from Astoria last night state that salmon fishing has as yet attained but light headway owing to unfavorable weather. Only a few boats are out and fish are very scarce.

VERDICT.—In the case of Harper vs Adair in the U S circuit court the jury last night returned a verdict of $7000 in favor of Harper. Both parties lived in Victoria and the suit began nearly four years ago.

IN FAVOR OF PLAINTIFF.—The case of J G Wiedeman against S W Crane and wife for the recovery of $100, was decided in Justice Davis court in favor of the plaintiff. This is the third time the case was heard.

BROKE LOOSE AGAIN.—This time Jim Turk was arrested for beating his clerk James Casey. He was brought to the police station but released on his own recognizance.

ASTORIA CRIMINALITIES.

Death of Bain's Victim—Seven Vags Punished—Three Rioters Arrested.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

ASTORIA, April 24.—Lowrie Alexander, the team ster cut with an axe thrown by John Bain died yesterday from the effects of his wound and was buried to-day. Deceased was from Glasgow, Scotland and his countrymen took charge of the funeral. Bain, who was out under bonds on charge of attempt to kill, is now in jail charged with murder.

The arrests made on the dock on the arrival of the "State" were several vags, which Chief Laughrey had failed to hunt from their holes. Expecting that as usual they would be at the dock on the lookout for greenhorns, the chief laid his plans accordingly and bagged seven. Judge Winton sentenced them to-day to clean the streets for from five to thirty days.

Three rioters who took prominent parts in breaking the door of the city jail during the excitement of last week have since been arrested and held to-day in $500 bonds to appear before the grand jury at the August term of the state circuit court.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

STREET RAILWAY AND CITY HALL DISCUSSED.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

Gardes then proposed to take up the matter of the street railway.

Hewett again stated that Mr Budd was sick and as he wanted to address the council on the subject it was nothing more than courtesy to wait for him until the next regular meeting.

Gerdes replied that in his opinion the entire system proposed by Mr Budd was a hoax and he took with [him] evidence against the best interests of the city; that Mr Budd was only trying to obtain franchise to enable him to sell out to the Willamette Street Railway Co that he (Gerdes) had heard a report the effect of Budd having offered certain parties stock in the proposed company to enable him to get a right of way. He then proposed that the entire business be indefinitely postponed.

Honeyman said that it would not be long before the council could determine whether the Willamette Railway Co would keep faith with the city and that it was only just to wait and all of them to prove whether their intentions were earnest.

Hewett again argued that Mr Budd be allowed to make explanations to the council at the next regular meeting.

The committee then rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

THE DREDGE.

The special committee on dredging made the following report which was adopted and ordered spread on the records:

To the Mayor and Common Council of the city of Portland: GENTLEMEN—We the undersigned your special committee on dredging and dredges to whom was referred the proposition to build a city dredge, beg leave to submit to your approval the result of our labors.

We have examined a large number of plans for dredges of various designs. We have also visited the government dredger and observed its workings. Mr Honeyman has paid a visit to California where he has had opportunity of seeing the workings of different dredges and herewith submits an exhaustive report concerning his observations as follows:

To the Chairman of the Committee on Dredging: SIR: Having visited San Francisco with a view of gaining any information in addition to what we already had in regard to the dredging of the river and construction of the machinery best suited to our work I submit for the consideration of the committee the following report:

On my arrival in San Francisco I placed myself in communication with the state board of harbor commissioners who very kindly extended to me every courtesy and placed at my disposal any papers or drawings in their office which would assist me in the matter in hand and also gave me every facility to inspect the several dredges operated by them. I also examined the dredges used by the railroad company and found them the same style as most of the harbor commissioners (either clam shell or bucket dredges) and while they are good machines in soft mud such as in the bay but for the kind of material to be removed from the bars in our rivers I do not think them as well suited as the endless chain or City dredge. On inquiry of the operatives on those machines that had worked on the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers in sand I all such as we have to remove they had all experienced the same difficulty that of holding the material in the bucket long enough to reach the scows. I then examined an endless chain machine at work on the San Joaquin which machine is really an attempted copy of the Clyde dredge we have had under consideration for some time past. The construction of this machine is faulty in several particulars but easily remedied notwithstanding several things which materially decrease its efficiency. It is capable of doing more work than any three of the best machines of either the shell or dipper patterns that we have any record of.

The best record of the clam shell style for a period of 25 days being a total of 31,000 cubic yards measured in the scows an average of 1197 yards per day which data I received from the engineer in charge of the dredge in San Francisco. The best record of the endless chain dredge above described for a period of 80 days is 350,000 cubic yards being an average of 4375 yards per day. This is measured in the cut made as this machine dumps on the bank of the canal and not into scows. The best record of the same style machine on the St Lawrence river is 2080 yards per day during the whole working season, which is good considering that they dump into scows as will be the case with our dredge. I consider the last mentioned is the best record of any of the fleet enumerated while I do not suppose we will be able to make as large a showing in the number of yards per day while deepening our channel from the fact that we will not have as deep a bank or cut to work in as was the case in the dredging above noted, the cuts running from five to twelve feet. Still if we do one half the work it will take but a short time to get a good ship channel through the several obstructions below the city and I see nothing to prevent us having a dredge ready in five months, with plenty of power to operate a sixteen foot bucket which would give a capacity of 380 yards per hour. To operate such a machine will require engines of 100 horse power as it will be necessary to provide for syphon and steam pumps for the proper working of the machine. This style of dredge at first cost is much more expensive than the clam shell or spoon dredge but taking into consideration the amount of material it will remove it is much the cheapest one for our purpose.

Hoping that whatever is to be done will be commenced as soon as possible as the river will be low by the time work will be completed and we cannot afford to let this season pass without it demonstrating that Portland is alive to the necessity of providing free access to her wharves for any vessel that may seek our waters. Respectfully submitted,

WM L HONEYMAN.

After hearing the result of Mr Honeyman's investigation and after full and deliberate consideration we have concluded that the only suitable machine for the city to build is a powerful endless chain dredge of the City pattern.

[Here follows a copy of the advertisement for bids and copies of the formal bids as published by THE OREGONIAN.]

The bid of J. H. Honeyman & Co being the lowest was accepted and we have prepared an ordinance which we herewith present authorizing us to enter into contract with the said John Honeyman & Co as per their bid heretofore stated. Inasmuch as there is urgent necessity that the work on the machinery should be commenced at the earliest practicable moment in order that the dredger may be completed at as early a day as possible we respectfully ask that the accompanying ordinance may be passed to-night. Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES HOLMAN,
HENRY HEWETT,
Committee on Dredging.

OVER 500 MACHINES IN USE.

The Degerminator Splits the Wheat and removes the germ and seam impurities perfectly. These Reduction Machines granulate the wheat, without cutting or abrading the bran. Guaranteed to make rounder and larger middlings and a greater percentage; also STRONGER and WHITER FLOUR than any other system in use.

A LIBERAL OFFER TO MILLERS. Knowing the superiority of the Jonathan Mills Degerminator and Reduction Machines for reducing wheat we submit the following liberal proposition:

We will [place] [illegible] Corrugated Rolls and put our machines in their place at our expense, and without making any other changes we will guarantee Better Results than are now obtained, in this, that from the same quantity and quality of wheat now used per barrel we will guarantee a larger percentage of Patent Flour of equal quality to that now made, a less percentage of low grade flour and a Bakers Flour superior in color and quality to and worth more per net than the Bakers Flour now made in the same mills. If we fail to accomplish Better Results as above we will take out our machines and replace the Rolls all at our own expense, and in addition will forfeit to the miller a cash bonus of $5000 to $10,000, according to the capacity of the mill.

DECISION IN U. S. CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. Circuit Court—District of Oregon.

Friday, April 2?, 1882.

The United States v. Daniel Smith. No. 771. Action to recover damages.

(1) TIMBER ON PUBLIC LANDS IN OREGON. The act of June 3, 1878 (19 Stat. 88), giving permission to the residents of Colorado, Nevada, the territories "and other mineral districts of the United States," to cut timber for certain purposes upon the mineral lands therein, does not apply to Oregon, but the subject of cutting timber on the public lands within such state is regulated by the act of the same date (19 Stat. 89), providing among other things, for the sale of timber lands therein.

(2) MINERAL DISTRICT. This term as used in the first of the said acts of June 3, 1878 (19 Stat. 88), has no application to Oregon, there being no such division or district of the state established either by law or common reputation.

(3) CUTTING TIMBER—WHO MAY AND WHAT FOR. Under the act of June 3, 1878 (19 Stat. 89), persons occupying the public lands in Oregon under the mining, preemption or homestead laws of the United States may cut and use the timber thereon convenient for the purposes of such occupancy, and may also take other timber from the public lands if need be, sufficient to maintain the necessary improvements on the lands so occupied; but any cutting or removing timber from the public lands otherwise than this—as with intent to dispose of or wantonly to destroy the same, is a trespass for which the party guilty of the same is liable civilly and criminally. 19 Stat. 90.

DEADY, J.

This action is brought by the United States to recover from the defendant the sum of $10,000 damages for wrongfully cutting and carrying away certain timber, between January 1, 1879, and the commencement of the action—August 17, 1881—then being and growing upon that parcel of the unsurveyed public lands of the plaintiff, situated in Baker county, Oregon, which, if surveyed, would be township 11, south of range 40, east of the Wallamet meridian, with intent to dispose of the same; and for that he "did convert and dispose of the same."

The defendant for answer to the complaint denies the allegations thereof, and for a further answer says—that at the time of committing the alleged unlawful acts the defendant was a citizen of the United States, over 21 years of age and a bona fide resident of "a mineral district of the United States," consisting of Baker, Grant, Union, Umatilla and Wasco counties, the same being "the fourth mineral district of the United States in the state of Oregon," and that while he was such a resident he did enter upon the unsurveyed tract of public land aforesaid, the same being within said mineral district, and "cut and remove therefrom a small number of trees growing thereon;" that said tract of land was mineral land and not subject to entry under any law of the United States, "except for mineral entry;" that said trees were "cut and removed and actually used for building, agricultural, mining and domestic purposes by defendant and others within said mineral district;" and that the cutting and removing of said trees constitute the trespass mentioned in the complaint.

The plaintiff demurs generally to this defence. The first act of congress which in terms authorized or permitted the cutting of timber upon the public lands by a private person for any purpose, was passed June 3, 1878, (20 Stat. 88) and is entitled—"An act to authorize the citizens of Colorado, Nevada, and the territories, to fell and remove timber on the public domain for mining and domestic purposes."

This act contains three sections. The first one authorizes "any bona fide resident of the state aforesaid, or either of the territories—naming them—and all other mineral districts of the United States," "to fell and remove for building, agricultural, mining or other domestic purposes," any "trees growing upon the public lands, said lands being mineral, and not then subject to entry, except for mineral entry," subject to such regulations as the secretary of the interior may prescribe for the protection of the timber upon said lands and other purposes—with a proviso that the act should not extend to railroad corporations.

The second section makes it the duty of the officers of any local land office "in whose district any mineral land may be situated," to ascertain whether timber is cut or used upon such mineral lands "except for the purposes authorized by the act," and to give notice thereof to the commissioner of the general land office.

The third section prescribes the punishment for a violation of the act or the rules made in pursuance thereof.

The act is very loosely and unskillfully drawn and abounds in unnecessary and undefined phrases and clauses of the and-so-forth character. The permission conceded by it is limited to citizens of the "United States" and other persons, "residents in certain states and territories, naming them," and "all other mineral districts of the United States." It allows timber "or other trees" to be cut for building, agricultural, mining or other domestic purposes, subject to such regulations as the secretary of the interior may prescribe for the protection of the timber and undergrowth, "and for other purposes."

On the same day another act was passed (20 Stat. 89), entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the states of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington territory."

This act contains six sections. The first, second and third ones provide for the sale of the "unsurveyed" public lands within these states and this territory not included in any reservations of the United States, valuable chiefly for timber, or unfit for cultivation, which have not been offered for sale, in quantities not exceeding 160 acres to one person or association at the minimum price of $2.50 per acre—with a proviso that the act should not, among other things, authorize the sale of a "mining claim" or lands containing gold, silver, cinnabar, copper or coal.

Section 4 provides—"That after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful to cut or cause or procure to be cut or wantonly destroy any timber growing on any lands of the United States, in the states or territory aforesaid, or remove or cause to be removed any timber from said public lands with intent to export or dispose of the same;" * * * and that any person so offending shall, on conviction, be fined for every such offense not less than $100 nor more than $1000 with a proviso that the act shall not "prevent any miner or agriculturalist from clearing his land in the ordinary working of his mining claim or preparing his farm for tillage, or from taking the timber necessary to support his improvements."

Section 5 provides for the relief of persons trespassed in said states and territory for the violation of the timber act of March 2, 1831, (4 Stat. 472; §2461 R. S.) and repeals §4751 of the R. S. providing for the disposition of penalties and forfeitures incurred under said act or section and directs that all moneys collected under that act shall be covered into the treasury of the United States.

Section 6 provides that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with such act are repealed.

In support of this plea or defence counsel for the defendant contends: (1), That the first named act applies to Oregon, as well as the states and territories therein expressly named, because it is included in the phrase—"all other mineral districts of the United States; and (2), That the permission contained in the first section of such act to fell and remove timber is not limited to the land occupied by the party cutting or removing it, nor to the quantity needed for his individual use, but that it is a license to every resident of a "mineral district" socalled in the United States to fell and remove all the timber he may from any portion of the public lands in such district, whether mineral, agricultural, or timber, to be used by any one within the district for building, agricultural, mining or other domestic purposes; and further, that the second act, although made applicable to Oregon by name, in no way affects or limits the operation of the first one therein.

If this is the law, then all the timber on the public lands in Oregon may be cut and removed therefrom with impunity; provided, it is not done for the purpose of being exported from the state or mineral district where cut.

No adequate reason is given or suggested why congress should thus suddenly depart so far from the traditional policy of the government to preserve the timber on the public lands for the use of those to whom it might ultimately dispose of them.

The argument hinges upon the meaning and application of the phrase "mineral district." The use of it in the United States statutes is new and confined to this act. As a matter of fact, so far as appears, there is no section of this state known and defined as the mineral district. Being neither known in law or fact as the designation of any well defined or exact locality, it is as void of meaning and incapable of application as the phrase "tree district," "stone district," "alkali district," or "water district."

The title of the act does not contain the proviso, but limits its operation to the citizens of Colorado, Nevada and the territories; and it is not probable that there was any thought in the mind of congress of extending it any further.

"The phrase "mining district" is well known, and means a section of country usually designated by name and described or understood as being confined within certain natural boundaries, in which gold or silver or both are found in paying quantities, and which is worked therefor, under rules and regulations prescribed by the miners therein, as the White Pine, the Humboldt, &c.

This term and the thing signified by it are also recognized by the United States statutes, §§ 2319, 2324 of the R. S. Copp's U. S. Min. Lands.

There is no method of proceeding known to the law by which a district of country can be prospected, surveyed and established or declared to be a "mineral district." The ordinary surveys of the public lands do not include any examination or exploration of them for mineral deposits—the surveyor being only required "to note in his field book the true situation of all mines, salt licks, salt springs and mill-seats which come to his knowledge." Sub. 7, § 2395 of the R. S.

By section 12 of the act of May 10, 1872, entitled "An act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States" (17 Stat. 95; § 2334 of the R. S.) it is provided that the surveyor-general "may appoint in each land district containing mineral lands, as many competent surveyors as shall apply for appointment to survey mining claims."

This "land district" is a division of the state or territory as the case may be, created by law, in which is located a land office for the disposition of the public lands therein.

There are four of them in this state. It is probable that these "land districts" in the mining states like Colorado and Nevada were sometimes familiarly spoken of as "the mineral districts" from whence the phrase found its way into the act of June 3, 1878.

But although there are "some mineral lands" and "mining districts" in Oregon, it is not known that there is any considerable or contiguous section of the country, to which the term "mineral district" could properly be applied, and it is certain that there is none to which it is applied by law.

It may be admitted that the use of the general words—"all other mineral districts of the United States," immediately following the enumeration of the particular states and territories mentioned, is some evidence of an intention by congress to extend the operation of the act beyond the limits of said states and territories. But the difficulty is, that the language used has no definite signification or local application, and therefore must fail to have any effect for want of certainty.

Besides this act is one in favor of individuals and in derogation of the rights of the public—the whole people of the United States—to whom these lands and timber belong, and therefore is not to be enlarged by construction so as to include things or persons not expressly enumerated, mentioned or described therein with reasonable certainty. Smith's Com. § 738 et seq. For these reasons the act, in my judgment, is not applicable to Oregon, but is confined to the states and territories therein expressly mentioned.

By act number 2 of the said acts of date of June 3, 1878, it is declared unlawful to cut any timber on any of the public lands in Oregon, with the exception of that cut by a "miner or agriculturist" in the ordinary working or clearing of his mining claim or farm or that taken there from to support his improvements on such claim or farm. This provision is inconsistent with and repugnant to the license to cut timber contained in act number 1. Either the prohibition contained in act number 2 must be limited and restrained by construction so as not to apply to mineral land—land subjected to "mineral entry," or act number 1, must be held not applicable to Oregon. Both can not be in full force in the same place. It may be said that number 2 being subsequent in point of place in the statute is presumed to have been passed subsequently to the other and therefore repeals or modifies it so far as they are in conflict.

But both acts being passed on the same day and measurably upon the same subject, I think they may best be considered as parts of one act and each be allowed to stand and have effect as far as it can without conflict with the other.

It cannot be said that in passing act number 1 congress expressly included Oregon in the license therein given to cut timber on the public lands, and it is only claimed that it contains some general words which may be interpreted so as to include it, while upon the very face of the act it is plain that in the passage of number 2, it was the intention of congress to regulate the subject of the sale and use of the timber upon any of the public lands in Oregon. This being so, the only reasonable conclusion is that act number 2 excludes number 1, even if there was any ground for holding the latter applicable to this state under any circumstances. The subject is fully regulated by the former act and there is nothing left for the latter one to operate upon without displacing some provision of the other. The provision for the sale of timber lands, for the prevention of cutting timber on the public lands, and for allowing the miner and farmer to cut and use the timber on their claims, and to take it from the public lands for the improvement of such claims, cover the whole ground, and if allowed to be in full force here, must exclude the Colorado act from the state.

The plea is insufficient. A defence to an action for unlawfully cutting timber on the public lands in this state, must show that it was cut upon the mining or farming claim or land of the defendant in the ordinary course of working the same or preparing it for tillage, as the case may be, or was taken from the public lands for the necessary improvements thereon.

It does not appear from the plea herein that the defendant cut the timber in question from land then occupied by him for the purpose of mining or agriculture or that it was cut from the public lands for maintaining the necessary improvements thereon.

From all that appears the defendant was unlawfully engaged in cutting timber from the public lands and, is at least liable to the plaintiff in damages equal to the value thereof.

The demurrer is sustained.

The United States v. Joseph D. Young, et. al., No. 772. Action to recover damages.

Same v. Jerry C. White, No. 773. Action to recover damages.

These two actions are also for trespasses upon the public lands in Baker county, and the demurrers to the defences thereto were argued and submitted at the same time as the demurrer in No. 771.

In No. 772 the plaintiff claims $3000 damages for the unlawful cutting of timber on that portion of the public lands that would, if surveyed, be township 10 south of range 37 east of the Wallamet meridian, with intent to dispose of the same, since January 1, 1879.

The defence is that in 1872 each of the defendants entered upon 160 acres of public land, which if surveyed would be in township 9 south of the range and meridian aforesaid, with intent to pre-empt the same, and erected thereon a dwelling house and other improvements of the value of $4000, with timber cut therefrom; that in the same year the defendants located a placer mining claim in said township 9 and within a mineral district of the United States, of not more than 160 acres for which they have since obtained a patent from the United States, upon which they cut timber to work the same and for the improvement of their agricultural claims within the dates alleged; that the defendants being citizens of the United States and residents of said township 9 did within the dates alleged in the complaint enter upon and cut and take from certain mineral lands situate in said township and adjoining the mining claim of the defendants, for building, mining, agricultural and domestic purposes, "certain trees and timber being and growing" thereon, amounting to 100,000 feet, which "trees and timber" were used for the purposes aforesaid; and that these acts are the same as those complained of by the plaintiff.

This defence has been pleaded and treated by counsel as one, but it really contains three separate defenses to three distinct supposed trespasses.

To the first and second the demurrer is not well taken. The defendants were authorized to cut the timber upon their pre-emptions and mining claim as they did either under section 4 of the act of June 3, 1878, supra, or if cut prior to that time, then under the construction given by this court in U. S. v. Nelson, 5 Saw. 68, to the act of March 2, 1861 (§ 2471 R. S.), to the effect, that congress by the enactment of the pre-emption, homestead and mining laws had so far modified that act, that pre-emptors and others occupying public lands under such laws might cut and use the timber thereon for the purposes of such occupation.

But to the third defence the demurrer is well taken. The timber thereby admitted to have been cut was not cut upon the mining or agricultural claims of the defendants nor upon the public lands for the necessary improvement of said claims, but upon lands unoccupied by the defendants and for sale or disposition to the public. For the averment that they were cut and used for building, mining, agricultural and domestic purposes comes far short of saying that they were so used by the defendants exclusively or at all. And if it should ever be construed as an allegation that the timber was used by the defendants, still it is not sufficient, as they were only permitted to take such timber from the public lands as might be necessary to maintain the improvements on their mining and agricultural claims.

In No. 773 the plaintiff claims $3000 damages also for cutting timber on public lands in what would be, if surveyed, township 11 south of range 42 east of the meridian aforesaid, since January 1, 1879.

The defence in this case is that at the date of the commission of the acts complained of the defendant was in partnership with R. C. Hines both of whom were American citizens and residents of the township aforesaid and within a mineral district of the United States, and being so, caused to be cut upon the public lands in said township timber to the amount of 75,000 feet which was used for building, mining, agricultural and domestic purposes within said mineral district.

This is simply a case of cutting timber on the public lands for sale or disposition to the public within the land district where cut, and under the ruling in No. 771, is a trespass for which the defendants are liable to the plaintiff in damages equal to the value of the timber cut.

The demurrer is sustained.

J. F. Watson, for the plaintiff.

John H. Rafferty for the defendants.

LANE COUNTY NOTES.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.

EUGENE CITY, April 21.

The last week of March was very pleasant and suitable for facilitating farming operations. The warm sun and clear, warm nights indicated a very early spring, but in this we must confess we are somewhat disappointed. Since the advent of April we have had but little good weather such as the wheat grower would like, the past week being very severe with regard to rain, wind, and nipping frosts at night. The early rains of autumn interfered with the sowing of fall grain, and our farmers have looked with much hope and anxiety for an early spring so that what is lacking in fall sown grain might be made up with spring sowings. Much of the ground plowed during the winter season and not yet sown to grain of any kind had a fertile and luxuriant appearance, caused from the sprouting and rapid growth of wild oats. Thousands of acres of the best prairie land in Lane county is virtually seeded to wild oats, and destined, without a radical change in the system of farming at present carried on, to work the ruin of many of our wheat growers. We are sorry to say that the outlook for the Lane county wheat growers is not a very encouraging one, inasmuch as the soil for the depth of six inches, from years and years of cultivation without being renewed with fertilizing agencies, is about exhausted. The fight of the wheat growers with exhausted soil, long distance from market, danger from rust and foul land, is and has been for the past four years a severe and unequal one, resulting to a great degree in the abandonment of this particular branch of farming. I have conversed with several of our leading wheat growers, Mr. James Ebert, Mr. George Belshaw, Mr. M. Wallace, Mr. Walter Young and many others who have expressed a determination to quit raising wheat except for home requirements.

Many persons who do not understand fully the resources of Lane county would naturally infer that after the raising of wheat has been abandoned as a leading industry, that we shall be left almost without any source of revenue and that our county will experience a set back instead of advancement. In this they will be very much mistaken. What seems now to be almost ruination to us will in a year or two be the greatest of blessings to us, namely, a change in and a better system of mixed farming. The last year's sales and shipments and demand for fat cattle and fine horses have had the desired effect upon our largest farmers, and hereafter, instead of so many bushels of wheat for export, it will be so many fat cattle and so many fine horses. Cattle feeding in this county is yet in its infancy and has only been practiced for the past year or two on a small scale. In the future we shall have imported blooded stock suitable for beef raising, and sheep also will be raised for their mutton qualities as well as for their fleece. Hogs on foot and in bacon and lard will form a large portion of our staple products, dried fruits, dairy products and hops will be among the leading articles for export. Of course it will take some time to effect the change, but come it most assuredly will, and the very unpropitious weather we have lately experienced will help to hasten the much desired change. Oats and barley will be grown in great abundance this season as there is no danger from rust, and moreover oats will bear shipment much better than wheat, and Portland and San Francisco affords a ready market for this product at paying prices. Barley will be used mostly in feeling hogs and cattle, and will form no small portion of the horse feed. Hundreds of acres of what is now called wheat land will next fall be sown to grass, and our farmers will realize that a larger profit can be obtained from this system of farming than that which has hitherto been practiced.

The amount of improvement being inaugurated this spring in the way of buildings for residences in Eugene City indicates in a very positive manner the great confidence our leading men have in the future of Lane county.

Mr. G. H. Parks has commenced operations on the foundation work of Mr. Jas. E. Holt's and Mr. Marks' new residences.

The state ticket as nominated by the republican convention at Portland gives good satisfaction to the republicans of this county and will command the full support of the party here. The nomination of R. S. Bean, Esq., for judge of this district is a good one as he is a lawyer of good practice and a man of excellent moral character, besides being very popular among his own party and among the democrats as well. The county ticket as nominated here recently is a good ticket and will command the support of the party. REGULAR.

Northwestern Crop Reports.

CHICAGO, April 24. The Tribune says: Correspondence given this morning from a large number of localities in the west presents an almost uniformly gratifying and favorable showing in the spring wheat regions of Minnesota, Dakota, Wisconsin, Colorado and Nebraska. Seeding has begun and is being pressed forward as actively as the weather will permit. In Kansas the same encouraging outlook is noted as in our dispatches a few days ago. Advices from Illinois points indicate that no very serious injury to winter wheat has resulted from recent frosts.

SEALED TENDERS FOR RAILROAD TIES

WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL 12 M., MAY 15, 1882, for furnishing two hundred and thirty-two thousand (232,000) cross ties along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Emory and Burrard Inlet, viz:

Twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Port Moody station, or at a point on the line of said railway between Port Moody and Pitt River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Pitt River, or between Pitt River and Kanaka Creek.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Kanaka Creek, or between Kanaka Creek and Stave River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Stave River, or between Stave River and Hatzic River.

Other fifty thousand (50,000) thereof at Hatzic River, or between Hatzic River and Harrison River.

Other twenty-seven thousand (27,000) thereof at Harrison River, or between Harrison River and the lower end of Maria Slough.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the lower end of Maria Slough, or between said lower end of Maria Slough and Tunnel "C" of said railway, which tunnel is about 14 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other ten thousand (10,000) thereof at said Tunnel "C," or between said Tunnel "C" and Tunnel "D," which latter tunnel is about 11 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other fifteen thousand (15,000) thereof at Tunnel "D" aforesaid, or between said Tunnel "D" and Tunnel "F" on said railway.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the said Tunnel "F" or between said Tunnel "F" and Emory's Bar, or at Emory's Bar.

All such sleepers or cross-ties shall be delivered alongside the railway and within fifty feet of the center line of the track, and shall be piled up so as not to interfere with the work of construction.

The bottom of the piles shall be as nearly as practicable on a level with the grade of the railway track and the said pile shall be so made as to permit of ready inspection and counting; and wherever such piles shall be made near water lines, bodies of water or rivers the same shall be placed in such location that the bottom of the pile shall in all events be above the line of high water.

It will be necessary to deliver at least fifteen thousand (15,000) acceptable ties per month from date of entering into contract until completion of same.

Ties must be smooth hewed or sawed, free from all worm-holes, and clear peel or sawed square at both ends, eight feet long, not less than two opposite sides to a uniform thickness of six inches, the flatted surface being not less than six inches on either side at the small end, and when sawed they shall be eight inches in width and six inches in depth.

All ties must be of sound timber, full size, and acceptable by the chief engineer of said railway, or they will not be paid for.

Ten per cent. will be reserved upon payment of accepted ties until completion of contract, and ten thousand dollars ($10,000) approved security required before signing contract. The security or securities to be given must be described in the tender. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
